WHO WE ARE

Dave Wood is a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage in Cambridge, the firm's leading office in the New England Region.

As a lifelong resident of the Boston area, Dave has a wealth of knowledge and perspective of the city and its surrounding communities. As your real estate agent, Dave will assist you through every step of the process and is committed to finding you the property that meets your needs. You can be assured of trustworthy, timely communication from a professional who is a good listener and an advocate for your best interests. His background in journalism, public service and corporate public relations has provided him with a wealth of wide-ranging experience in working with people from many different backgrounds. Dave has also served as a PCA and volunteers for several disability programs and organizations including Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital and the Vermont Adaptive Sports School.

Jim Wice is a disability advocate with more than ten years experience working with the people with disabilities including those with mobility impairments. He is well versed in architectural accessibility and the Americans with Disabilities Act. As a wheelchair user himself, Jim is also available for peer counseling during the home buying process. He knows transportation, adaptive equipment, and other area resources beneficial to your home purchase planning needs. He holds a Masters of Education in Rehabilitation Counseling from the University of Massachusetts.

Together, we provide the most comprehensive disability-related real estate service in the Metro Boston area. And we can help you if you're looking in the suburbs too. We are committed to helping people living with disabilities enjoy the benefits of property ownership. We welcome first time buyers and seasoned property owners and we can work with you on rentals too.
